Planning the Defense on a Bridge Hand

Add some fun to your day and bridge game with a series of bridge lessons from NABC champion and ABTA master teacher, Kevin Wilson. You will get access to four classes over consecutive weeks via Zoom and BBO and get a short write-up of examples afterwards. Video replays of the lessons will be available for you to review for one year after each lesson. This is a class in planning and strategy of defensive card play. There are five generally recognized strategies for defending a bridge hand. This class will cover four of those five plans.

Monday January 6th from 9:00 AM - 9:50 AM EST (GMT-5)

Aggressive Defense – An aggressive defense is one which tries to get tricks quickly and will often risk giving away a trick(s) on the opening lead to get what is possible quickly. Learn when to adopt an aggressive defense and how to do it before the opening lead is made.

Monday January 13th from 9:00 AM - 9:50 AM EST (GMT-5)

Passive Defense – A passive defense is the opposite of an aggressive defense. The goal is to make the declarer break every suit and to force the declarer into as many guesses as possible. Learn when to adopt this defensive strategy.

Monday January 20th from 9:00 AM - 9:50 AM EST (GMT-5)

Leading and Drawing Trump on Defense – Some situations call for a trump lead and others may call for a trump switch immediately after dummy is faced. Learn the specific situations to lead trump and to continue playing them.

Monday January 27th from 9:00 AM - 9:50 AM EST (GMT-5)

The Forcing Defense – Learn when to try and hijack control of the trump suit away from the declarer. The class gives you the hallmarks and pitfalls of the technique so that you can recognize when to employ this devastating tactic.
